How We Started

In 2020 Claire Churpek opened the very first Half-light Interchange in San Luis Obispo, California. Originally from Los Angeles, Claire always had a passion for expressing herself through her clothing as well as protecting the environmental factor of retail. She began selling her clothes thorough online mediums when she was just 16 years old. Claire thought the word “Halfight” could be used to represent the clothing she sold because her franchise transforms them to be half new and half used.

How It Works

Looking to sell those clothes in our closets that could use some more use?

At Halfight Interchange, customers sell their current, on-trend clothing and accessories for cash or trade credit on the spot!

How To Sell

At Half-light Interchange everyone is eligible to sell their clothing! The process is done in three easy steps:

1. Make an appointment to drop of your clothes. Walk-ins are welcome as well!
2. Shop around while we sort through your clothes!
3. Get paid in cash or trade credit!
